HARDING WILL HAVE 401 VOTES IN ELECTORAL COLLEGE

HAS CARRIED EVERY NORTHERN STATE AND TENNESSEE AND OKLAHOMA IN SOUTH

RESULT IN MEXICO, WITH THREE VOTES, IS STILL IN DOUBT

(United Press)

New York, Nov. 4.—Virtually complete returns from the whole country today showed Senator Harding would probably have at least 401 votes in the electoral college and Cox 127. The outcome in New Mexico with three votes was still in doubt. Oklahoma appeared to have gone to the republican column.

According to these figures Harding has carried the following states:

Arizona 3, California 13, Colorado 6, Connecticut 7, Delaware 3, Idaho 4, Illinois 29, Indiana 15, Iowa 13, Kansas 10, Maine 6, Maryland 8, Missouri 18, Montana 4, Nevada 3, Massachusetts 18, Michigan 15, Minnesota 12, Nebraska 8, New Hampshire 4, New Jersey 14, New York 45, North Dakota 5, Ohio 24, Oklahoma 10, Oregon 5, Pennsylvania 38, Rhode Island 5, South Dakota 5, Tennessee 12, Utah 4, Vermont 4, Washington 7, W. Virginia 8, Wisconsin 13 and Wyoming 3, a total of 401.

Cox has carried, Alabama 12, Arkansas 9, Florida 6, Georgia 14, Kentucky 13, Louisiana 10, Mississippi 10, North Carolina 12, South Carolina 9, Texas 20 and Virginia 12, a total of 127.

Oregon Elects Republican Senator

Portland, Ore., Nov. 4.—Senator George N. Chamberlain appeared to have been beaten today for re-election by Robert M. Stanfield, republican. Returns from 947 out of 1,699 precincts gave Chamberlain 46,235, Stanfield 53,796.

Senator Harding apparently has carried the state by about 50,000. Returns from 922 precincts gave Harding 59,225 and Cox 32,179.

Harding Leading in New Mexico

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 4.—Senator Harding was leading Governor Cox by 2,341 votes in returns from approximately one-third of the state today. Both claim the state.

Even Texas Reports Republican Wave

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 4.—Unprecedented strength in large southern Texas cities will cut down the democratic plurality as first estimated in this state considerably, it was apparent today. Republicans have carried the city of El Paso for the first time in history with Harding polling 25 votes more than Cox. John P. Culbertson, republican candidate for governor, carried the county.

Harding Has 404 Electoral Votes

New York, Nov. 4.—Warren G. Harding probably will have 404 votes in the electoral college, and James M. Cox 127.

Returns from New Mexico this afternoon indicated that the state was going to the republican column which would give Harding a total of thirty-seven states leaving Cox eleven states.

HARDING GOING TO REST UP

RAYMOND CLAPPER

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) Marion, Nov. 4.—President-Elect Harding will do little work or no work on the association of nations project for the present, according to those close to him today. It is certain he will call no conference until after his inauguration. An official statement from his headquarters said no politics would be considered and no visitors received during the next month. Harding is going to rest up.

GOVERNOR COX TO VISIT EUROPE

(United Press)

Dayton, Ohio, Nov. 4.—Governor Cox today said he probably would visit Europe in the spring of 1921. He desires, he said, to get first hand information of conditions there as affecting the United States.

BRYAN SUGGESTS WILSON RESIGN

(United Press)

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Wm. Jennings Bryan here today suggested that as a result of the election, President Wilson resign immediately allowing Vice-President Marshall to assume office.

Marshall, Bryan said, should appoint President-Elect Harding as secretary of state, and then also resign when congress meets in December, in order to allow Harding to start carrying out his program immediately.

The laws regulating succession to the presidency would put Harding in the presidential chair if the program was carried out and Marshall resigned.

"The people voted against the Wilson league and for the association of nations, endorsed by the republicans," said Bryan in an exclusive interview with the United Press.

"It would seem therefore that the president accept that verdict and aid in carrying it out by resigning at once. He will surely find it no pleasure in combating a republican congress. It would also enable Vice-President Marshall to become president for a short time, an honor which he has well earned," Bryan added.

"Marshall should appoint Harding as secretary of state and offer his own resignation when congress meets in December. The law regulating the succession would then make Harding president and with a republican congress to support him he could carry out the republican plan of international co-operation."

Bryan declared that he knew nothing of any proposed conference of democrats to plan a new democratic program.

"There is no doubt, however, but that there will be a conference when the democrats have a chance to get together," he said.

Bryan explained why he didn't campaign for Governor Cox. He said it was because Cox evaded the liquor issue.

WOMAN WON SEAT IN CONGRESS BY CLASSIFIED ADVS.

TELLS HOW IT WAS DONE—WILL SPECIALIZE ON LEGISLATION FOR WOMEN

(By United Press)

Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 4.—Legislation for the improvement of conditions of women, Indians, children, farmers and laborers will be the aim of Mrs. Alice M. Robertson, the only woman elected to congress in Tuesday's election.

Mrs. Robinson, 66 years old, republican, wasn't considered as having a chance to be elected and was "joshed" by all her friends. "They thought I didn't have a chance," said Mrs. Robinson. "They paid money against me. I warned them but they didn't take the warning. Now they are sorry, and I am sorry for them."

Mrs. Robinson, who owns a cafeteria here, claims she won her election through classified advertisements in Muskogee daily newspapers. During the campaign she placed want ads in all papers here. The heads indicated they were about the cafeteria. In the body of the ads were paragraphs with heart to heart talks on the political situation.

The victory of Mrs. Robinson was in spite of the fact that she had been an anti-suffragist.

"When I get in congress I shall specialize on legislation effecting the welfare of women, Indians, children, farmers, soldiers and the working people," she told the United Press today.

Mrs. Robinson was appointed postmistress here by President Roosevelt in 1901. Her election makes the second woman to be elected to congress. The first was Jeannette Rankin of Montana. Both are republicans.

VOLSTEAD ELECTED CONGRESSMAN IN SEVENTH DISTRICT

WITH 30 PRECINCTS MISSING HE HAS LEAD OVER KVALE OF 1327

St. Paul, Nov. 4.—With only thirty precincts missing in the seventh congressional district, Rep. Andrew J. Volstead was believed re-elected to congress over his nonpartisan league opponent, Rev. O. J. Kvale. Volstead had 33,249 and Kvale 31,922, a lead of 1327 for Volstead.

Because of a bitter contest between the pair, and the fact that Kvale received more votes than Volstead in the republican primaries, a contest of the election may result.

German Paper Thinks Sen. Harding's Election Means Peace

(United Press)

Berlin, Nov. 4.—The German press rejoiced over the American election holding it as a defeat for Wilson. The newspapers advised their readers not cherish excessive hope that relations between Germany and the United States will be straightened out immediately. The Local Anzeiger predicted peace soon for the benefit of the American people.

Every German with political judgment greets the finish of the Wilson rule," the Anzeiger said. "We have no illusion as to Harding. We only hope for speedy peace then the good old relationship will return automatically."

The Older Authors.

The greater part of our modern literature bears evident marks of the haste which characterizes all the movements of this age; but in reading these older authors we are impressed with the idea that they enjoyed the most comfortable leisure. Many books we can read in a railroad car and feel a harmony between the rushing of the train and the haste of the author but to enjoy the older authors we need the quiet of a winter evening—an easy chair before a cheerful fire, and all the equanimity we can command. Then the genial good nature, the rich fullness, the persuasive eloquence of those old masters will fall upon us like the warm, glad sunshine. The pages of friendly old Goldsmith come to us like a golden autumn day, when every object which meets the eye bears the impress of the completed year and the beauties of an autumnal forest.—James A. Garfield.

Minnesota May Have Solid Republican Congressional Delegation

St. Paul, Nov. 4.—With only two contests in doubt and a republican leading in each of those districts, there was a possibility today that Minnesota's entire delegation to congress would be republican.

Oscar E. Kellar, republican from St. Paul, is known as an independent but was elected on the republican ticket.

Representative Andrew J. Volstead was leading in the seventh district but not by a sufficient margin to make his election certain.

In the eighth district W. L. Carse, democrat, was slightly behind Larson, republican.

EVEN NEW MEXICO WENT REPUBLICAN

(United Press)

Roswell, N. M., Nov. 4.—With scattered returns in from more than half of New Mexico's twenty-nine counties, indications are that Warren G. Harding will carry the state by 1500 votes. Republican candidates for state offices will also be elected by the same majority, it was indicated. The total vote is expected to reach 20,000.

IRISH VILLAGE NEARLY DESTROYED

RAID WAS IN REPRISAL FOR THE MURDER OF BRITISH INSPECTOR

(United Press)

Dublin, Nov. 4.—The village of Granard, sixty miles northwest of Dublin, was practically destroyed last night by uniformed men. The raid was in reprisal for the murder of Inspector Kelleher of the Royal Irish constabulary, shot to death in a hotel room in the outbreak following MacSwiney's funeral.

The raiders stormed the town in eleven motor trucks, firing as they came. Residents fled to the country to escape rifle shots and sure death in burning cottages.

REPUBLICANS WILL HAVE 18 MAJORITY IN THE U. S. SENATE

REPUBLICAN SENATORS ELECTED IN OREGON, OKLAHOMA AND ARIZONA

New York, Nov. 4.—Republican victory in the senatorial race in Oregon, Arizona and Oklahoma indicate the latest figures would make the strength of the new United States senate, fifty-seven republican and thirty-nine democrat.

Ralph H. Cameron, republican, was leading Marcus A. Smith, democrat, in the latest returns from Arizona, while Scott Ferris, democrat, had conceded his defeat to J. W. Herrald, republican, in Oklahoma, and in Oregon Robert N. Stanfield, republican, was evidently elected over Senator George E. Chamberlain.

PREUS WILL HAVE 100,000 MAJORITY OVER SHIPSTEAD

HARDING WILL LEAD COX IN THE STATE BY OVER 300,000 PLURALITY

ALL OTHER STATE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES HAVE EQUALLY LARGE VOTE

(United Press)

St. Paul, Nov. 4.—Senator Warren G. Harding continued to pile up an amazing vote as backward returns filtered in from Minnesota precincts today. He was given a vote of three to one over James M. Cox. 2258 precincts tabulated out of 3195 in the state, gave Harding 382,293 and Cox 99,363.

J. A. O. Preus in 2410 precincts, piled up a lead of 88,425 over Henrik Shipstead, his nonpartisan league opponent. The vote was: Preus 332,858, Shipstead 244,433, and L. C. Hodgson, democrat, 64,299.

Louis L. Collins was leading his nearest opponent, Mallon, for lieutenant governor by 150,000. Hilton, republican, for attorney general, was leading Sullivan, nonpartisan, by 140,000, and the plurality on all other state offices are correspondingly high.

Politicians were not surprised at the tremendous vote for Harding, but the big vote given republican candidates on the state ticket was considered phenomenal in view of the campaign. The nonpartisans had threatened some years ago to "capture Minnesota in 1920," and conducted a gigantic campaign. They were completely snowed under, although they claim to have elected several state legislators.

Preus Lead Increases

St. Paul, Nov. 4.—With 2492 precincts tabulated, Preus had 340,383, Shipstead 225,468 and Hodgson 64,706.

In 2342 precincts the vote for president was: Harding 391,354 and Cox 100,265. Indications were the entire state ticket would carry by pluralities of 60,000 to more than 100,000, and that all four state constitutional amendment were passed. Amendment No. 1 providing for $100,000,000 worth of good roads in the next ten years, carried by a plurality of more than 100,000, returns showed.

NONPARTISANS MAY LOSE IN NORTH DAKOTA

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 4.—With 1442 precincts out of 2029 in the state reporting O'Connor, Democrat, leads Gov. Frazier, nonpartisan, 8,500 votes. The 600 precincts yet to hear from are all small and it is confidently expected that O'Connor will win out by a small majority.

The lower house of the legislature, will be anti-league, so the grip of the league on the state is broken.

Another Report of N. D. Election

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 4.—Governor Lynn J. Frazier was rapidly cutting down the lead of J. F. T. O'Connor in the race for governor today, indicating that the nonpartisan, incumbent, will be returned to the capitol by a majority of 10,000 to 15,000. The vote in 1410 out of 2091 precincts gave O'Connor 85,247 and Frazier 83,757.

Burtness, republican, probably is elected to congress from the first district. Sinclair, nonpartisan, is expected to win congressional honors in the third district, and in the second district the fight between George Young, independent, and Ole Olson, nonpartisan, is close. Dr. E. F. Ladd, president of the Fargo Agricultural College, was believed certain to win the senatorial election.

Forest Fires.

Forest fires in mountainous country are found to be much more numerous and destructive on south slopes than on north, according to the findings of a government investigator who has made an extensive study of the subject. While the difference is not marked at the height of the fire season, the early and late fires favor the sunny side so strongly as to have a decided effect upon the average figures for a period of years. The explanation offered is that the growth of underbrush is much heavier on the south side, encouraging the spread of fire, while the north slopes hold more moisture.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

AMERICAN BRANCH OF INTERNA-TIONAL LABOR OFFICE RE-PORTS ON RUSSIA.

OFFICE NOW GOING CONCERN

Brief Description of Its Constitution,
With Its Diplomatic and Scientific Divisions and Its Six Technical Sections.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—The "international labor office" of the League of Nations now has an active branch here.
Through this branch both employers and employees are obtaining, for distribution on an extensive scale, the report which the scientific division has rendered on conditions in soviet Russia. The report presents an intimate picture of the horrible conditions existing throughout Russia, and it is asserted that no American workingman can study it without a feeling of disgust.

The international labor office is now a going concern. It consists of two parts, the international labor conference, which is held once a year or offener, and the international labor office itself, with headquarters at Geneva. This last in turn is subdivided into two principal divisions, a diplomatic division and a scientific division.
The international labor conference is made up of delegates from all the member states, four from each, two of whom are direct representatives of the government; one is appointed by the government in agreement with the labor organizations, one in agreement with the organizations of employers.
As many of the states, notably in South America, have as yet no organizations of either employers or employees, in the working out of the representation the governments are found to contribute a preponderating majority.

Makeup of the Office.

The international labor office consists of a governing body of 24 members, of which 12 are government officials, six represent the employers and six labor. Eight of the government members are selected from the eight countries of chief industrial importance, viz.: Belgium, France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Germany, Switzerland and Spain. The four other countries represented are Argentina, Canada, Poland and Denmark; but Denmark figures in the list only in the place of the United States, and would retire should the United States ever enter the League of Nations and so become eligible to membership in the international labor office. The director general of the international labor office is Albert Thomas of France and the deputy director general Harold B. Butler of Great Britain, who already had served as secretary general of the international labor conference convened under authority of congress by President Wilson in Washington in 1919.

The international labor office in turn is divided into two principal divisions, a diplomatic division and a scientific division. E. J. Phelan of Great Britain is chief of the former, and Dr.
Royal Meeker, formerly United States commissioner of labor statistics, is chief of the scientific division. Mr.
Meeker is recognized as the leading expert of the world in the compilation of statistical data relating to labor, and his appointment was made wholly upon merit.

Six Technical Sections.

So far the international labor office has correspondents in five countries—England, France, Italy, Denmark and the United States. The American correspondent serves unofficially, of course, as far as the United States is concerned, and the expenses of the office are paid wholly from the funds of the central organization, with which the United States government has nothing to do. In addition to the foregoing are six technical sections as follows: Unemployment, under the direction of Mr. L. Varley; emigration, under Dr. W. A. Riddell; seamen, under J. Randall; agriculture, under Dr. G.
Di Palma Castiglione (Dr. Di Palma Castiglione attended the Washington conference as one of the delegates from Italy); Russian inquiry, under Dr. G. Parde (Dr. Parde was the deputy secretary general in charge of editing and translation of the Washington conference); social insurance, under J. J. de Raude, and co-operation under Dr. G. F. Rouquet. As the work of the office progresses other sections will be organized.

The scope of the work of the scientific division is much broader than a mere compilation of the labor and industrial data. Very little idea of the character of this work is conveyed by the statement that the division prepares the agenda for the international labor conference. Another conference will be held in Geneva, April 4, 1921, and already a study of the topics to be discussed there is in course of preparation. Merely to mention a few,
these include studies of productivity of labor in all the countries of the world; of prices and transportation; of the effect of the economic crisis in Europe upon America; of the effect of shorter working days on the productivity of the individual workers;
of changes in the use of machinery caused by the war; of a hundred other subjects of equal interest and importance to employers and to employees.

CONSUME THEIR OWN WARES

According to This Story, Chinese Vendors Are Pretty Slippery Gus-tomers to Deal With.

A street vendor who eats his own stock sounds like a weird kind of merchant to American ears. And yet he exists in China, according to the report of a Y. W. C. A. secretary stationed in Peking, where an industrial work room was part of the equipment of a social service project, a co-operative piece of work which was put into effect under the combined leadership of the Y. M. C. A., the American church board, and the Y. W. C. A.

"Men who were set up in business as street vendors ate their own stock until the social service workers decided that it was not safe to entrust a man with edible wares," writes Miss Alice Holmes, a Y. W. C. A. secretary.
Nor was this the only failing that the would-be business men had. If the stock consisted of articles which could not be eaten with safety, they consented to sell them, running away with all the earnings. Finally the Americans decided that no man should be set up in business unless he had somebody to stand guarantee for his good character. Under this safeguard an oriental gentleman whose family standing and personal integrity had been investigated, was entrusted with a large stock of athletic supplies which he peddled from house to house.

All went well for a time, for one cannot very conveniently make a dinner of tennis rackets or baseballs. But one fine day the merchant disappeared to-side of a certain dwelling and although his companion waited patiently on the outside for many long hours, the salesman failed to reappear. At length the companion notified the police. An investigation revealed the fact that the salesman had gone into the house by the front gate and had left by a rear one.

That he made a thorough as well as an effective get-away is testified to by the fact that the peddler is still
"wanted" by the Peking police.

No Great Poverty in Italy.

Likeness of Italian women to American women in their bearing, build and manner of dress, was one of the things which impressed Miss Irene Raber, just returned from a year of recreation work with Italian girls under the Italian Y. W. C. A.

"There is a very little poverty and no destitution among Italian working girls," Miss Raber says. "And they dress quite stylishly in much the same type of clothes New York's employed girls wear. They are not given, however, to georgette blouses or silk stockings for work. But although they do not earn as much money as girls here do, they know how to live on much less.

"Nowhere in Italy did I see great poverty. In spite of the continual strikes, no home seemed to be wrecked.
Living is not so complicated there as here, and when there's a strike they just go without things till it's over.
There's always enough to eat."

On the Seas.

The fame of the American clipper ship is still remembered the world over. These marvelously speedy craft carried the American flag and merchandise to every sea. As late as $30.90 per cent of the exports and imports of the country were carried on American ships. By 1914 less than 10 per cent was carried under the Stars and Stripes. The great war changed all this. Instead of American ships carrying less than one-fourth the world's goods in five years they carried over one-fourth of this value of it. The number or rather the tonnage of American ships increased in this period nearly ten times. In 1914 only about 750,000 tons of American merchandise sailed away under the American flag while in 1919 8,000,000 tons was carried in vessels flying the American flag. The tremendous growth of America's merchant fleet will go down in history as one of the remarkable developments of the war.—Boys' Life.

Beautiful Night Flower.

The most glorious of all the night-blooming flowers common to the garden is the moonflower, a climber. The blossoms, each like a mammoth saucer, are produced in great numbers and unfold their tightly twisted petals in late afternoon, even before darkness falls. It is a delightful experience to watch them open, for the transformation is effected so rapidly that a change from a tight bud to a full bloom flower takes place in a few moments. As the petals open, the sweetness of the flavor is thrown upon the air and attracts even from a long distance a night-flying moth, the only creature which is able to reach the bottom of the deep cup wherein the nectar is secreted. This moth has a tongue which rolls up like a spring, and when it is uncoiled measures six inches. Other insects may search for the sweets which the flower contains, but this one alone is provided with a tongue which can find it.—Christian Science Monitor.

GENTLEMANLY DRIVING

"What is your traffic kick?"
 "What is your remedy for it?"

These questions are asked publicly in a city which has had much trouble with automobile traffic, and is arranging a series of public hearings before the city council to devise improvements.

It will probably be found there, as elsewhere, that while the situation can be helped by certain changes or innovations in the parking and driving rules, the main trouble is one which no mere traffic code can remedy. It is a trouble which seems to be inherent in human nature, and whose cure depends on the moral improvement of the species.

In plain English, it is the "road hog" propensity of motorists. This is a regular characteristic of a comparatively small minority, but streaks of it are found now and then in almost everybody, and everyone who drives a car and everyone who crosses a street or highway on foot suffers from it.

It is a strange thing how often a man behind a steering wheel will act in a way that he would be ashamed of in a home, an office or a public gathering. Jostling and shoving and threatening and cutting across in front of other people are just as discourteous on the road as they are anywhere else. So is many other trick of the road hog. It is just as desirable for a driver to be a gentleman on the road as it is in a drawing room. It is more important, for on the road discourtesy is likely to be attended with serious danger.

Be a gentleman on the road. That simple admonition, if followed, would do more to eliminate the confusions and dangers of traffic than all the technical rules in the world.

SQUARE DEAL FOR THE FARMER

The latest report from Washington, where the embattled farmers are assembled to fire one more shot in the attempt to keep prices up, is that having failed to receive any support from the administrative agencies of the government—the Treasury and the Federal Loan Banks—their next point of attack will be the Senate and House of Representatives.

It is said the request will probably be made that Congress vote a huge loan to the European nations wishing to buy in American markets but unable to secure credits. Provision will also be asked to permit the extension of time on loans to farmers so that they can hold their crops for higher prices than are now obtainable.

Nobody has been louder in his complaints at the high cost of everything he had to buy during the last few years than the farmer. How can he hope now to gain federal legislation to help him to keep prices up, while everybody else has to put them down?

In some cases the farmers obviously deserve help, in the form of more liberal credit and other protection against compulsory "dumping" of their crops and playing into the hands of speculators. But whatever measures might be taken by the government to protect prices in one industry must perforce be extended to other industries also. The farmers can properly demand no special privileges.

Fortunately most farmers and most legislators are too sensible to take such a proposal very seriously. The real remedy for whatever injustices exist lies, in most cases, with the local banks, and the bankers of this section and community are anxious to give them a square deal as compared with other borrowers.

BLOWN UP OFTEN

It has been stated that Postmaster General Burleson passed by the treasury steps in New York city just half an hour before the big explosion shook up Wall street last month.

However, Burleson would not have noticed it because he has been "blown up" so often.

"We must teach the American people to eat more beans," says the National Federation of Bean Growers. That was tried on the American Expeditionary Force, and anybody who has ever talked about it to a returned soldier knows how much good it did.

An Ohio judge has warned would-be divorcees that they will not be granted alimony if they wear fur coats. The wise ones will therefore go after the alimony first and then buy the fur coats with it.

Governor Cox carried the southern states where he made no speeches and where they probably didn't read his bombastical and intemperate utterances.

Whatever else the election accomplished the elimination of the notorious Victor L. Berger from American political life is a cause of congratulation.

The inefficiency of Burleson, Baker and Daniels was a load that no party could carry and meet with success.

Harding's majority in the electoral college is greater than the vote necessary to elect him.

STATUS OF OUR MERCHANT MARINE

SOME INTERESTING FACTS AND FIGURES CONCERNING THE SEA-GOING VESSELS.

TOTAL OF THESE NOW 3,482

How These Controlled by the Shipping Board Are Distributed in the Various Trade Services—Work of Recruiting the Personnel.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—The total documented sea-going merchant marine of the United States on October 1, 1920, consisted of 3,482 vessels of 11,708,342 gross tons of approximately 17,562,513 deadweight tons. Of this total the shipping board now owns 1,627 vessels of 6,862,548 gross tons, equivalent to 10,293,308 deadweight tons. Of this total owned by the shipping board, 693 vessels of 3,036,065 deadweight tons are vessels of less than 5,000 deadweight tons each. Vessels between 5,000 and 6,000 deadweight tons number 147 or 771,734 deadweight tons.

The tonnage of active vessels at present controlled by the shipping board exclusive of the vessels operated by the army and navy and under bareboat and time charter are distributed in the various trades as follows: Thirty-eight per cent in northern European; 9 per cent in southern European; 4 per cent in African; 17 per cent in Trans-Pacific; 15 per cent in South American; 9 per cent in West Indies and Caribbean; 6 per cent in domestic service and 2 per cent in operating between foreign ports.

Of the steel vessels owned by the shipping board engaged in these services 580 are operating from North Atlantic ports, 89 from South Atlantic ports, 229 from Gulf ports, 132 from Pacific ports, 89 are operating in coastwise service, 53 are operating between foreign ports, 113 are at present unaffiliated to any designated berth line service. These latter virtually constitute the tramp service.

From Atlantic Ports.

Of the total operating on the North Atlantic district, 274 vessels are operating from the port of New York, 102 from Norfolk, 90 from Baltimore, 70 from Philadelphia, 23 from Boston and one from Portland, Me. The total deadweight operating from North Atlantic ports is 3,991,504. Of the total tonnage operating in berth line service 54 per cent of the deadweight tonnage is operating from the Atlantic ports.

The total tonnage operated by the United States shipping board excluding vessels operated by the army and navy on October 1, 1920, numbered 1,611 vessels, the deadweight tonnage of 10,150,759 (16 vessels operated by the army and navy). Of the 1,627 vessels owned and controlled by the shipping board on October 1, 1920, 1,504 were cargo vessels, 27 were cargo and passenger vessels, 76 were tankers, 15 refrigerators, and 5 transports. The cargo and passenger vessels include two vessels chartered from Peru on which the shipping board has an optional agreement of purchase. Included in the total number of vessels owned and controlled at October 1, 1920, are 284 wood and composite vessels and five concrete vessels. At the close of September, 1920, 60 of these wood vessels were in active service and 224 were in charge of managing crewmembers and withdrawn from operation.

Recruiting for the Service.

At the time the United States entered the World war there was a shortage not only of American ocean tonnage but of men to man the bottoms embraced in the ship construction program. To meet this condition to date the board has trained through its recruiting service over 14,000 officers and 33,000 men below the grade of officer for the merchant marine. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, the sea service bureau placed on American vessels a total of 169,891 officers and men, of which number 65,740 per cent were Americans. When the shipping board through its agencies first began placing men on ships in 1917 at the port of New York, which is used as an example because it is the most represented, 90 per cent of the crews placed on American vessels were aliens.

For the last 12 months 37,271 officers and men were placed on American ships by the New York office of the sea service bureau. Of that number 60 per cent were Americans. The percentage of Americans in the deck and steward's department is lowered by the percentage of aliens in the fire room, there being more aliens serving in that department than any other on board ship. Of this number 9,318 were able seamen; 4,937, about 53 per cent of that total, were Americans, while 4,881 were foreigners. A total of 2,968 ordinary seamen were placed in sea service. Of this total 2,641 or nearly 90 per cent were Americans.

The ordinary seamen of today are the able seamen and officers of tomorrow. In addition to his other activities, the recruiting service of the shipping board has trained several hundred skilled licensed engineers in the operation and upkeep of marine turbines; 23 especially qualified men have been trained on the electric drives. The shipping board is now going forward with the work of developing and raising the standard of the personnel of our ships.

Worked for One.

In a little settlement upstate a number of the property owners had been talking about incorporating and making a town. So they called a mass meeting for the people to voice their opinions. Only one man opposed it. He said: "Gentlemen, I am not in for making a corporation of this place. My reason is this: I worked for one of them corporations once."—Indianapolis News.

AMUSEMENTS

Fiske O'Hara

The seat sale for Fiske O'Hara in "Springtime in Mayo" at the Park on Nov. 8 opened at the box office this morning, and met with such an unusually heavy demand throughout the day as to warrant the belief that a capacity house will greet the popular actor-singer and his talented company. In "Springtime in Mayo", the author, Anna Nichols Duffy has written a romantic comedy that cannot but help win the hearts of all lovers of the really worth while in stage offerings. There is well contrasted characterization, rollicking fun, bright lines, brilliant wit, the intelligent commingling of sentiment and comedy and finally there is the skillful interpretation of Mr. O'Hara to lend delightful humanness and charm. He gives the play many rare moments and treats his role with such care and skill that the result is as natural and finished an image as could be desired. His vocal efforts, as usual, stand out boldly. Among the well known players of Mr. O'Hara's supporting company are Patricia Clary, Frederick Pymme, Nan Bernard, Mary Louise Malloy, George Sharp, J. P. Sullivan, J. E. Miller, W. T. Sheehan.

DOES IT PAY TO WORRY ABOUT APPENDICITIS?

Can appendicitis be guarded against? Yes, by preventing intestinal infection. The intestinal capsule, Adler-I-ka, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels removing all foul, decaying matter which might start infection. EXCELLENT for gas on stomach or chronic constipation. It removes matter which you never thought was in your system and which nothing else can dislodge. One man reports it is unbelievable the awful impurities Adler-I-ka brought out. Johnson's Pharmacy.

CIGARETTE MYSTERY NEARS SOLUTION

Police Stop Car Supposed to Contain Contraband Liquor and Discover Cigarettes

THE WHOLE LOOT IS RECOVERED

Confession of Man Held Assists in Locating Cache in Farm East of Brainerd

The cigarette robbery, one of the most daring in the annals of crime in Brainerd has been solved and found to have been carried out by local parties, according to a confession the police assert was made by one James Dehels, one of the first men arrested. His companion, Martin Sorenson, eluded the police and escaped.

On October 18 the Brainerd Grosvenor company noticed that Monday morning that $2,500 worth of cigarettes in cases, including Camels, Lucky Strikes, etc. were missing and a window had been smashed, permitting entry of the thieves.

W. H. Cleary, president of the wholesale grocery company, said at the time he was sure it was done by people familiar with the stock and the inner arrangement of the warehouse.

On Wednesday night, November 3, 10:30 o'clock, a woman residing near Broadway and Laurel telephoned the police that actions of people in an automobile looked like bootleggers at work. Officer Erick Graft and Geo. Rardin went to the scene and stopped the car. Dehels was taken and Sorenson escaped, said Officer Graft. In the car was found no whiskey, but some of the long lost cigarettes.

Dehels in his confession told where the loot was buried. Officers Graft and Rardin and citizens drove out in the country, two miles east on the Oak street road and then north half a mile and 20 rods from the road found the buried cigarettes after removing two tons of jackpine boughs, digging up several feet of earth and removing the canvas. There were in this lot 19 or more large cartons, some quite damp from being cached under the ground.

Dehels, in his confession, as stated by police, said Sorenson had sold three cases to Gust Holevas of the Princess Candy Kitchen and police found the packages at the store. Two cases were found hidden near an elevator on Front street. The case found in the car contained Camels. Dehels confessed, said the police, that they got $50 a case for the cigarettes.

Holevas on Thursday was taken in custody on the charge of having stolen goods in his possession. Sorenson is a man 6 feet tall, weight 175 pounds, and has two fingers and a thumb off below the second joint of his left hand. He wore a black overcoat and hat. His father lives in the country. Dehels has lived only a short time in Brainerd over the Gardner garage building.

Stepping Lively in the Orient.

The familiar "step lively" of the subway conductor and policeman, which hastens the movement of cosmopolitan life, is not escaped today even in the Orient. One needs to watch her step, when traveling by steamboat up a languid oriental stream just as carefully as when boarding the subway at Forty-second street during the rush hour, according to the report of a Y. W. C. A. secretary, stationed in Canton, China. "When a passenger wishes to get off the steamboat," writes this Y. W. C. A. secretary, "a shrill whistle is blown to summon a small boat to carry her to shore. Then a man carrying a long bamboo pole with a hook on its end climbs out on a little ledge on the side of the steamboat, ready to catch hold of the boat as it passes by. The steamboat slackens its speed but very little and passengers need to 'step lively' into the rowboat or they will be left behind. Baggage is tossed in after them."

SHOW CONFIDENCE IN REPUBLICANS

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 3, 1920
Brainerd, Minn.

To Dispatch:

The people of the Sixth district, state and nation, have shown the great confidence which they repose in the Republican party, which must justify that remarkable confidence. Personally I feel profoundly grateful, and shall continue to give the people the very best service of which I am capable.

Celibacy Among the Clergy.

During the first three centuries the marriage of the clergy was freely permitted, but by the Council of Elvira, early in the fourth century, continence was enjoined on all who served at the altar. For centuries this subject led to many struggles in the church, but was finally settled by Gregory VII, positively forbidding the marriage of the clergy. The Council of Trent in 1545 confirmed this rule. In the Greek church celibacy is not compulsory on the ordinary clergy. Protestants hold that there is no moral superiority in celibacy over marriage and that the church has no right to impose such an obligation on any class of her ministers.

Couldn't Find the Colors.

John's mother was washing some of his garments. Holding up one of his new wash suits, she exclaimed: "Oh, dear, dear, John, the colors in your pretty new suit ran." John, who was having much trouble in controlling a fiery steed in the form of a broom handle, apparently paid little attention. A little while later he came to his mother and said, in a much puzzled manner: "Mother, I can't find 'em any place." "Find what, dear?" asked the mother. "Why, the colors," answered John. "You said they ran. Where did they go?"—Indianapolis News.

MISS BOARDMAN'S IMPORTANT TASK

GOVERNING WASHINGTON AND
THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
REQUIRES HIGH ABILITY.

GENUINE TEST OF HER SEX

New Commissioner Believes That Women Should Prepare Themselves to Take Up Their Share of Civic Responsibilities.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—Men who are in touch with the trend of the times say it is evident that women will not be slow about taking an important part in government, federal, state and municipal. It is generally understood that immediately after the November elections the women everywhere will begin to ask for places of trust, if not of profit, in the service of their government. Privately many of the men politicians from this new manifestation, but they admit that publicly they will have to recognize the right of women to insist on their share of the appointive offices. In the near future, it is predicted, the women will insist on and obtain their share of the elective offices.

The outgoing administration here at Washington has shown an inclination to recognize the women without delay. The new President, whoever he may be, will have to take notice of the precedent set by his predecessor. The three important appointive places now held by women here are assistant to the attorney general, member of the civil service commission, and member of the board of commissioners for the District of Columbia. The District commissionership to which Miss Mabel Boardman was recently appointed, will, it is generally predicted, offer a genuine opportunity to test the ability of a woman to administer the affairs of an important office. The district is governed by a board of three commissioners, two of whom are appointed from civil life by the President and one of whom is detailed from the army.

Governing Capital Big Task.

Governing the capital of the nation is no unimportant task. The District of Columbia and the city of Washington, in a very real sense, belong to the people of the whole country, and so it is that the government of the District is subject to a considerable extent to the scrutiny of the whole people through their representatives in congress.

Miss Boardman brings to the office to which she has been appointed years of experience as an administrative officer of the American Red Cross. To her more than any other one person belongs the credit for the reorganization of the Red Cross, following the retirement of Clara Barton as the head of the organization. She was secretary of the Red Cross at the time of her appointment as District commissioner.

Miss Boardman believes that women should prepare themselves to take their share of civic responsibilities and for a certain degree of official service. "I believe that this official service will be more apt to function in municipal than in federal government," said she in discussing the future responsibilities of women. "Municipal affairs have a closer and more immediate contact with the home in certain of their phases. Matters of public health, schools, playgrounds, markets, and charities are all questions in which women are greatly interested. Their own experiences and training, especially when the questions concern their families and their children, will make their service of value to the community."

Miss Boardman's Share.

It should be said in passing that in the division of the work of the new board of commissioners for the District of Columbia Miss Boardman is in charge of public health, schools, playgrounds, and charities. "Federal service, either legislative or executive departments, has to do with a great number of international, financial and business problems," said Miss Boardman. "It deals with treaties, with tariffs, with trade relations, with commercial interests, with international finances, with postal management, with national methods of taxation and appropriations, with national defense, public lands, and a score of other important problems for the solving of which few women have had either training or experience." Miss Boardman believes, however, that men and women should be selected or appointed because of their fitness for the position and not because they are men and women. She said:

"In her enthusiasm for the things in which she is deeply interested woman will feel intensely the disappointments so often to be met in these efforts for desired results. She may be impatient, but be patient with her, she will learn and her vision will broaden. I am sure we can all agree that the vision of women will not lack in height. Woman will sometimes wish to accomplish things that the more practical and experienced men will regard as impossible, and yet I have known the vision of the woman to sweep away barriers apparently immovable and the dream become a reality."

Apart from the big London hospitals, 2,000,000 patients receive treatment during a year.

THEY ALL WERE AMERICANS

Interesting Observations on the Product of the Melting Pot by Frederick Palmer.

Where were the foreigners? I wondered as I looked at the faces in the streets upon my return from Europe. The French, who had heard much of our polyglotry, asked this question when they saw our soldiers marching along the roads of France. In French eyes the men were all of the type American. Yet they included foreign born, as well as sons of every race in Europe, Frederick Palmer writes in Harper's.

Are you Americans? their adopted country asked of them in those trying days. They gave their answer in sacrifice at home and in battle, often fighting against an enemy of their own blood. Zolinskis, Einsteins, Schmidts, Bertellis, Katsanjans won the Distinguished Service Cross, thrilling our pride with a new sense of nationalism. Had they now reverted to loyalty to the lands of their origin? If so, what had wrought the change in their hearts?

To my fresh view all the people were distinctively Americans in garb and taste; in their complexion, which our climate so promptly affects; in their brusque and frank civility, their intensity, their pleasures, and their restless motion. Later, as I became settled at home and more discerning, I might note that this or that person was of Swedish, Italian, Hungarian or Slav stock. Then I would see through the veneer, as I was told. But aren't most of us—again, not a new idea—who are "off the reservation" of foreign stock? My people missed the Mayflower and came over in 1636. I could not discern that the descendants of the Pilgrims were more American than I was or than a dark eyed telephone girl whose father was an Italian immigrant.

Not even in the mean streets did I find patches. I saw no shriveling babies in emaciated mothers' arms on bread lines in the European sense, though conditions were bad enough from the point of view of desired standards which must ever call our ambition away from stagnation of "everything is for the best in the best of worlds." In place of saloons in mean streets and average streets, new stores and restaurants had appeared. How clean the restaurants were compared to those of the same class in Europe! How wholesome was their atmosphere!

WAR ON DISEASE WORLD WAR

Health Problems of the Remotest Land Is the Concern of All Peoples.

The war against disease is a world war. Commerce carries dangerous infections, as well as goods and ideas. The health problems of the remotest land concern all peoples. More and more, nations are coming to recognize their interdependence in health as in industry, government, science, and culture. There are even now foreshadowings of world-wide co-operation in combating the maladies which have long threatened humanity. For this new campaign leaders are needed to extend the frontiers of medical science, to teach, to organize, to administer. Demonstrations are required to convince communities and nations that diseases can be controlled and even eradicated. The Rockefeller Foundation, enlisted for this world-wide campaign against disease, is co-operating with many agencies in five continents.

Fuel Oil for Railroads.

The great scarcity of coal has caused the Paris, Lyons, and Mediterranean Railway company to transform some of its motive power from coal to fuel oil consumption, which is about to be followed by the Chemin de Fer de l'Etat, or state-owned railway, and engines at its shops at Salntes are now undergoing changes for experimental purposes. Much attention is being directed to the announcement that the first-named railway company is planning to equip 200 locomotives for fuel oil and install numerous storage reservoirs of from 40 to 100 tons' capacity at various points on its lines.—Scientific American.

Census Involves Much Work.

The 110,000,000 cards needed to record the population of the United States in the new census made a stack more than ten miles high. Without machinery it would be almost impossible to manage a census nowadays. It took seven years to complete and publish the census of 1890, and nine years to complete the census of 1890. By means of electrical mechanism which punches something like 4,000,000 cards a day, the cards are now sorted and tabulated in weeks instead of years. The device also saves expense and eliminates error.

Forewarned.

A little girl was sent to fetch some milk from a neighbor. She took with her two cans.

On arriving home she was crying and bespattered with mud. Mother saw at once that her daughter had had a fall and asked if she had lost all the milk.

"No, mother, not a drop."

"And how did my clever little darling manage that?" mother asked.

"I knew I was going to fall, mother, so I stood the cans down."—Answers, London.

Conveys Idea of Meanness.

Thrifty habits of the rural New England deacon have resulted in the perversion of the noun and its use as a verb is well understood. To "deacon" a calf is to knock it in the head when born, hence, "deaconed" veal. To "deacon" strawberries, a custom more honored in the observance than in the breach, is to put the largest ones on top, and to "deacon" land is to extend one's fence to include a portion of the highway.

Fordson

TRADE MARK

It is a habit of Henry Ford to thoroughly try out and test any product he manufactures before he puts it on the market. He personally must know it will do all he wants it to do before he will allow anybody else to buy it. For thirty-five years he worked on this Fordson Tractor. He kept buying land until he had something like eight thousand acres in order that he might get a great variety of soil conditions and maintain the plowing problems that meet the farmers of the world, and then the Fordson Tractor was put to work and made to take all sorts of practical tests for years before Mr. Ford put it on the market.

And, therefore, when it came on the market, it was right, it was reliable, and it would do the work he said it would do. People have bought it, have tried it out, have tested it, and it has proven to be all that Mr. Ford claims it to be, and this is why that while farm Tractors have been on the American market more than twenty years and while three hundred thousand have been sold one hundred thousand of that three hundred thousand are Fordson Tractors, and yet the Fordson has only been on the market two years.

It has sold rapidly because when one farmer bought one, he practically converted the neighborhood to the desirability and profit of the Fordson Tractor on the farm.

The Fordson is made small, compact, flexible, dependable. It is made to be much more convenient to handle than a horse. It was made so that anybody of ordinary common sense could operate and take care of it. We wanted to make it so that a mechanic would not have to be sold with every tractor. It was made by a farmer for a farmer, and it has the endorsement of the farmers—the little farmer and the big farmer. Some farmers have one, some farmers have ten and fifteen, and one farmer we know has fifty-six. It works just as well in the West as it does in the East. It is just as flexible in the North as it is in the South. It is just as profitable in the wheat fields as it is in the sugar and rice fields. It is just as flexible and useful on the fruit ranch as it is among the fields of oats and barley. It is just as useful and profitable in the lumber camp, railroad yard, coal mine, as it is in the oil field or any other commercial line. But especially designed for the farmer, it is especially his.

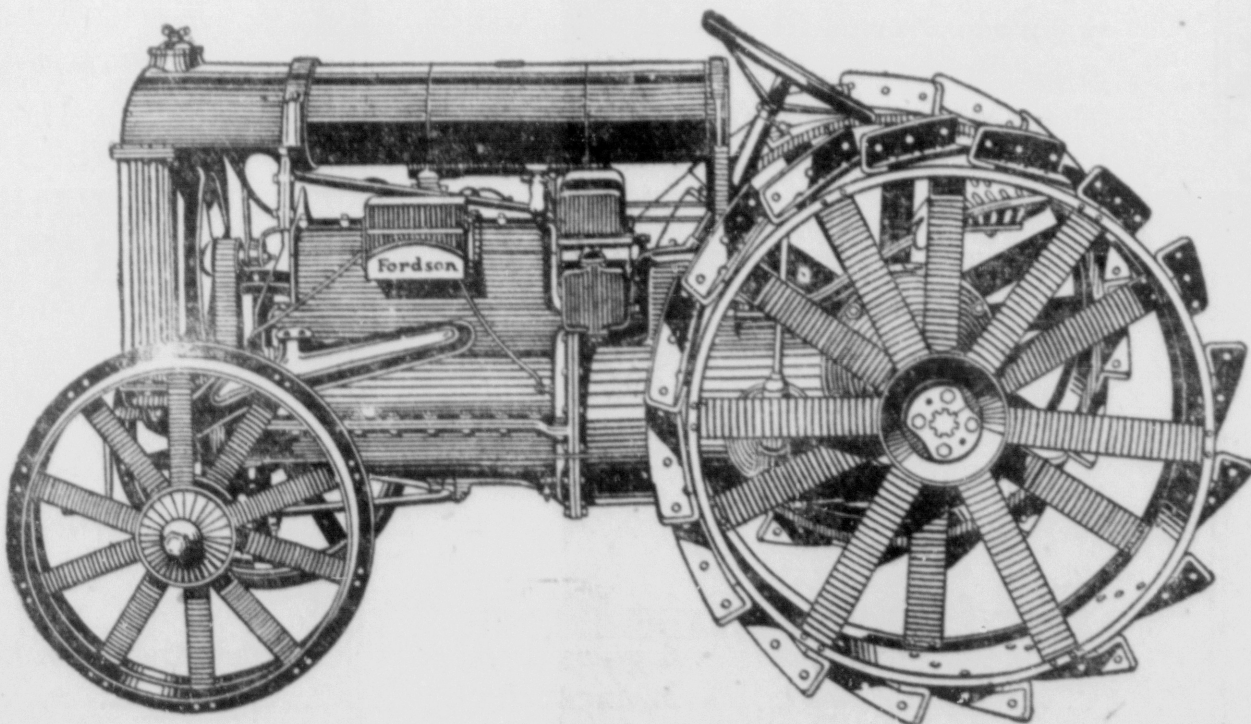

Because it increases the production of every acre by enabling the farmer to cultivate his ground to better advantage than he can with mule or horse-power. It takes the sting and drudgery out of farm work. It is a great conservator of labor expense. Oh, it has so many money-saving advantages that the farmer can't do without it and be progressive and make money.

So we ask every farmer to come in and let us tell him more about this Fordson Tractor. Let us make a demonstration for him on his own farm. Let us test it out to his soil conditions. Let's show him.

Don't delay because there are only so many Fordson Tractors to come to this territory. Get your order in now, and remember that the Fordson after service is prompt and sure. We are supplied with everything necessary to keep your Fordson going every day in the year. Come in and let's talk it over necessity.

Disliked Underground Railroad. The London "Underground" railway was the first of all railways to travel exclusively underground. It was opened for traffic January 9, 1863, the terminus at that time being Farringdon street station, which a contemporary writer described as "a family vault on a large scale, with a series of hip-baths introduced into it diagonally for light and ventilation. The hip-baths are lined with glazed tiles and, to keep their resemblance to their prototype, we find the leakage drained off at the lower end into a vessel something like a soap dish. A dense fog filled the place when I was there, and as the people waiting for their trains were seen wandering up and down the platform one might have imagined them ghosts of the great unwashed condemned to linger in sight of those lavatories they neglected in their mortal life."

The Same Sunch. At a recital in one of the churches Little Joe played a piece and carried a bouquet to one of the little girls who played. Later, another bouquet was sent to one of the players and Joe piped out, "Why, that's the same bunch of flowers that I took up."
